His Awesome Glory

The FGBMFI celebrated victory at this year's World Convention in Miami, Florida. The theme, "His Awesome Glory", was apt as we heard testimonies of new breakthroughs in reaching whole nations and witnessed new confidence and strength in our organization.

Leaders from Honduras shared how the results from the recent Fire Team Outreach has now reached to over 400,000 people responding. They said they were convinced responses would continue to grow till it reached a million people.

The news media was particularly active during this Convention due to a number of high profile visitors from Central America. Each day we would open the newspaper to read another article on the front page of the Miami Section. It was great to see how positive the press was in their reporting.

The most significant aspect of this year's Convention was the sense of hope and expectation that everyone reiterated about the Fellowship. From the packed-out crowds, which were much larger than at last year's World Convention, to the way people gave to the work of the FGBMFI, there was a clear sign that a mighty army of businessmen is on the move, determined to change whole nations through their testimonies and the power of the Holy Spirit.

In the photo above International FGBMFI President, Richard Shakarian, pins a lifetime membership pin on the president of the Honduran National Congress. The final evening's speaker, Colonel Daniel Lopez Carballo, Commanding Officer of the Honduran Armed Forces, shared a powerful testimony to the importance of Jesus Christ in his life. He told us that God had helped his nation rebuild after the devastation of Hurricane Mitch. He said that of all the honors he has received, the most important honor of all is to have a living relationship with Jesus Christ.

Have you ever heard of commodity food? Government food. Powdered eggs. Yuck! Prune juice. Even today I hate powdered milk. In my neighborhood everyone pretty much lived the same lifestyle. They weren't going anywhere, and I said to myself, "I am not going to allow this to happen to me regardless of what is taking place." We had to turn out the lights and burn candles. There was not enough food. Our only mode of transportation was to take the bus or walk.

My mother had men in her life who didn't treat her well. I had to watch while she was abused. This was unacceptable and I made no secret where I stood. When I was a freshman in high school I couldn't even read, but because I was really good in sports — basketball, football and track — they passed me. I had to suffer through life, always trying to catch up. It was hard.

I've never shared this story, but in our neighborhood most of the houses were infested with rats. My friend, Larry Daniel, told us about the rats in his house and we decided to go and shoot them. We turned off the lights in his kitchen, and we could hear a noise; dishes were going everywhere. When we turned the lights back on, there were the huge rats. We were so shocked we couldn't even shoot them.

Don Wiggins - Mr. USA

As I grew older I determined that I was not going to live that way. I did the best I could to help my mother, but I was just a kid. One time I was going to get something for my mother when I came across two guys who were arguing. They'd been gambling. At this point one guy pulled out his gun and said, "Man, give me my money." The other guy pulled out his gun, responding, "No." When one of the men ran, the other began shooting. I stood there shaking, saying, "Oh, my God!." I made the decision once and for all, "I'm going to get out of this 'hell hole'."

I thought I was a Christian. After all, I would go to church on Easter and I was baptized when I was 13 years old. But I would drink booze and cuss and swear like a sailor.

Excelling in sports, I was able to go college. I went to Iowa - of all places! Going to the local gym on Sundays we had to cross a main street in town. I started dating Vickie. She was white and I was black. My coach really got after me, "We can't allow this," he said. The entire football team turned against me. It was Civil Rights all over again and I was the only black on the team.

I hated the weather there. It was cold and stuffy and the entire town stunk of the hogs they slaughtered. All I would think of was that I had to get out of there. I went back home feeling defeated. The man I called dad was a hard labor construction worker. He said, "This kid was going to make it." He even gave me his entire paycheck and told me to go, that I didn't belong there.

Getting into a school in California my life began. I started playing football and going to college. When I blew my knee out, I had nowhere to go. I lived in Huntington Beach. There were no blacks in the area during that time. I don't know what God was trying to show me, but I knew I was there for a reason.

Then a good friend came to me and suggested I get into body building. During that time I was determined to make it. I had to make it! He got me a job at a health club. I helped people work out. I was naturally built.

Then I learned about steroids. I thought they were interesting. At that stage in my life, I was willing to do what I had to in order to succeed.

In my first contest for Mr. Orange County, I won. All of a sudden, I was really climbing the body building level. I was a body builder. They started putting me in all the magazines like "Iron Man", "Muscle" and "Fitness". I was the new kid on the block. Unfortunately, I still didn't have any money. I needed sponsors.

Then a friend of mine, Jerry Nelson, came on board to help me. He has advised me over the years and has become a dad to me even today. He helped me out. He was worth 28 million dollars at the time. He had a hospital called "The Good Samaritan Hospital". He brought me in as his son and started teaching me about things in life.

He said that I could do anything I really wanted to, and I believed him. I was at Golden West College. A good friend of mine named Larry took me to a Bible study. Larry didn't really know about my need. I didn't have any food in my house. The cabinets were bare and my freezer was empty.

When I went there and heard them praising God I thought those people were crazy, but when I left there I had 15 bags of food. I was a happy camper. I filled up my cabinets. Now I had food to eat. That was fun.

After I met Jerry things took off for me. I went to live with him and his family. His sons and I became like brothers. My life was really good. He took care of me as if I were a member of the family. He gave me a car. I had never had a car before! I thought I was on top of the world.

Then I competed in this strength exhibition that was on. I felt there wasn't anything that I couldn't do physically.

On one occasion, trying to impress a girl I was dating, as she was leaving, I picked up the back of the car, saying, "Now you can't go anywhere."

I was on a lot of shows and exhibitions. People were amazed with my 500 pound bench presses and 10 reps. It was fun. Plus, I had another friend, "Joe, the Greek from Muscle Creek." He was quite a character. Joe liked to intimidate people. He would go up to them and say, "Excuse me. Sit down and put some weight on the bench." Then he would lay back and start pumping. Then he'd look at the guy, pat him on the back, and say, "Keep trying."

My arms were 21½ inches. My thighs were about 34½ inches. My chest was 56½ inches. I had to wear jeans with a baggy shirt.

During that time I met Kim. I needed to clean up my act and get my life together. She was a Christian. She shared with me about the mission trip she wanted to go on. She wanted to serve God with all her life. To impress her I said, "That's my heart, too."

The day after I met her I sent her a dozen roses. She responded, "I don't know about you. You may be a nice guy, but the guys you hang around with have bad reputations, and you may be just like them." I insisted that I was different and from that point on we became friends.

She said that if we were going to date, I would have to get "saved", and stop going to clubs, drinking and hanging out with all my crazy friends. Of course, I agreed.

I reluctantly walked into church with her and immediately felt like I was at home. The atmosphere and the praise and worship changed my entire life. That morning the pastor invited those wanting to make a commitment to God to come forward. That day I gave my life to the Lord Jesus Christ. Two hours later I received the Baptism of the Holy Spirit.

A friend and I were grocery shopping that day, walking down the aisles, praising God as we went. People must have thought we were crazy. When you experience the power of God, you don't care who sees you. I knew right then and there that if I had gotten killed, I would go to heaven. From that point on my entire life changed. No more night clubs. I even got rid of my crazy friends or tried to get them all to come to Jesus. A rumor started spreading in the body building world that 'Don Wiggins is a freak for Jesus'.

Don with some Turbo Nutrition Products

I started applying God's Word in my life and in my business. I started reading the Bible. When I told Tony, a buyer at Lucky's corporate office, that I had a nutritional supplement I had designed, called 'Turbo Nutrition', he said, "We have a slotting allowance." He asked if I had any type of marketing plan for my company. "Me, I'm just Mr. USA. I don't know." I said. He bought my products and put it into the stores. I didn't even have the overall sales pitch down enough to sell. God had set up everything and I didn't have to do anything.

One lady from a grocery chain in Northern California made it clear that she did not like me. I was too persistent. Finally, she gave me a meeting. At the time I was totally tuned in to God. She told me on the phone that she would not buy my product. I said that was okay. God had told me to set this meeting up.

I walked into Leslie's office. She was so friendly, I thought, man there is something wrong here. I had gotten up early that morning to pray and I was ready to go. Prayer changes things. God gives you power to get wealth.

We engaged in some small talk and then she said, "Don, you are so persistent and consistent. What do I need to buy?" My friend, Hank, was so surprised. Today, he is still talking about that experience. He now knows that God cares for him as well.

God is a powerful and loving; He cares for His kids. Don't be fooled by the crazy junk that the world is showing us, because it's false. It's not real. I lived that false life. A man becomes a man is when he accepts Jesus Christ as his personal Savior. I'm a living testimony to that. Today, I should be in jail, behind bars. Praise God, He never gave up on me.

Golden Gloves Super Heavyweight Champion

Tuese Ah-Kiong, Honolulu, HI

At 28 years old and 201 pounds, I was only two pounds into my weight category. A boxer in training since age 8, I found my advantage in speed. It all began when my father took me down to the boys' club boxing gym. It was one of the best investments he had ever made. His intentions were to keep me from being involved with the wrong crowd. I was inspired by boxing role-models like Sugar Ray Leonard and Hector Camacho who had come from similar childhood environments.

They were men that I was able to identify with, and I started to dream about becoming a champion. "All I need to do is work hard and stay committed. I would have to do whatever it takes", I thought.

This passion for boxing triggered an explosive change in my life towards the positive. Keeping my dream and goal before me, I turned from my negative lifestyle. I became in good shape and felt strong, confident, and super. This is the best high a person can have - a natural high, not from drugs like some people go after. Sports build and the other destroys.

I felt good about myself and could see hope and promise. The positive energy behind my boxing excitement reflected in all areas of my life. My school grades improved to a 4.0 GPA. My physical and mental health were super. It is my firm believe that this was all possible because of my deep and personal relationship with the Lord Jesus Christ.

The principles I learned are more than just boxing skills, they're life skills. The USA Amateur Boxing Program has permitted me to travel around the world and offered an environment that challenges and nurtures excellence and self-esteem. It has given me the opportunity to touch the lives of others, not only in the ring, but through coaching, mentoring and sharing.

Due to my faith in God, I do not attach my self-worth to successes and failures in the boxing ring. I now box because of the opportunity it gives me to influence other people. It is a platform to accomplish something greater. Reality is that no one is going to be number one forever. This means that they will have to deal with failures at some time. I believe that conducting myself with honor is the most important thing.

The Olympic Training Camp was in Colorado Springs, January 9-15th, 2000. The top two contenders would qualify for the Olympic Trials. I fought and defeated two boxers, one being the number one ranked in the country, and made it to the semi-finals. All I needed to do was defeat my next opponent and I would be in the Olympic Final Trials.

Throughout the tournament I was in prayer and the Word of God. I saw God's hand on me throughout the event. Psalms 37:4 says, "Delight yourself in the Lord and He will give you the desires of your heart." I was convinced God would bless my efforts and that I would

When the round ended I was unsure how the decision would go – with it hung my dreams for the Olympics

I have learned that the most important thing is to be close to God. Even as I write this story, I think about how my strength is in Jesus. Above all I want to be in His presence. Immediately after the bout, God sent me Christian friends, Charlie and Danielle, who encouraged me. Later, on the plane ride home, God arranged for Blair Scott, FGBMFI Editor, to be seated next to me. He encouraged me for the whole flight back to San Francisco. God's love never fails; He only ever has good things in store for us.

Trying for the Olympic 2000 team, I thought it would be like previous events in which I had taken part. Even when I took the National Championships, I knew sooner or later, no matter how much I prepared, someone younger and faster was bound to come along. Yes, it was disappointing when I did not win the victory, but this is exactly when the true victory came out - the victory of the heart to give God the glory in victory and defeat.

Since the Olympic trials in Colorado earlier this year, I have won the Golden Glove State Championship for Hawaii. In the Golden Glove National Championship after that, I won my first bout by a knockout. In the second fight, although it was close, I lost by points. In 1998 I won the National Golden Glove Championships. To do this, I had to win in 29 fights during the week-long event.

My weight class starts at 201 pounds. I am just inside my class. This means that I generally have to go up against bigger men weighing almost 300 pounds. In all that I do there is one thing that is truly important to me and that is that the glory goes to Jesus.

win. The big day came and I took the first two rounds. In the third round I lost 3 points for holding.

The round ended and I was unsure how the decision would go. When it was announced, my heart fell. It went to my opponent and with it my dreams for the Olympics. I was confused. What had I done wrong? What was God telling me? Although this was not easy, it was obvious that God had other plans for my life.

FRAUDSTER FINDS FREEDOM

Alf Droy - UK

Alf Droy, a former professional squash racket player and enigmatic businessman, who was close to achieving his ambition of becoming a self-made millionaire by his fiftieth birthday, confessed to the Inland Revenue his embezzlement from his wholly-owned PLC companies. This was following an ultimatum from the living Lord Jesus Christ.

"My tax affairs were under investigation and although I was confident that I could cover up my deception, I was thoroughly disgusted with the Dorian Gray look-a-like figure that I had become. I just did not want to live a lie. Whilst I lay on my bed early one morning, struggling with my dilemma, an authoritative voice impressed itself on my ears."

"Alf Droy, I know every thought you have ever had and I am aware of all your deeds. You believe that with your quick wits and your silver tongue you can persuade your way into eternal life by charm. You have never acknowledged Me as Lord of your life. Surrender your life over to Me and accept forgiveness, and if you declare your dishonesty publicly and make restitution, I will grant you a place in Heaven beside Me."

Alf continued, "I'm nobody's fool and can recognize a good deal when I am offered one. I leaped from my bed, determined to be obedient to Jesus' possibly final offer. On my unannounced arrival at the offices of the Inland Revenue, the tax inspector was dumb struck when I handed over the bank statements from my secret account and confessed my crime. I fully expected him to call for a policeman, who would lead me to the prison cells handcuffed. I asked the inspector what was to happen and he replied that this case was too big for his jurisdiction and would be passed to the Fraud Squad for their attention.

"Some weeks later two agents visited our home and systematically searched every room. They then visited all our business premises, before indicating that this case would not be quickly resolved. I put our house on the market at 70,000 pounds whilst taking in lodgers to meet our new straightened circumstances. Owing to the depression of the mid-80's, the house (fortunately) remained unsold.

"The housing market finally recovered some 18 months later and we received an offer of 95,000 at the same time as the Fraud Squad investigators completed their investigations. They proposed that we should sell our house in order to meet the majority portion of accumulated debt, of tax liability, the interest thereon and fine amounting to 100,000 pounds in total (which, owing to inflation, would be worth a great deal more in today's terms); the residue was to be paid at 7,500 pounds per annum, until paid off.

"The day we moved into our rented home in November 1985, which was a one-bedroom basement apartment with no central heating, the offer was withdrawn!

"We were in a quandary. I sensed that to return to our former home would be a retrograde step, even though a sale was unlikely until the following Spring. We were having to find 3,000 pounds per month to meet our obligations, so we had to pray a lot! Five months later we received two offers on the same day of 110,000 pounds!

"The manager of the bank with whom we traded was alarmed to read from the annual accounts (presented in April) that the bank had become second creditor in line behind the Inland Revenue and immediately called in our personal guarantee of 25,000 pounds.

"A Christian friend telephoned, offering to loan me the 25,000 pounds until the completion of my house sale. That cautious bank official almost succeeded in bankrupting us, but through God's provision, we rode out the storm."

Controversy has always surrounded Alf's existence; even his birth resulted in the shot-gun wedding of his parents. None of his father's family attended the rushed wedding. Born within the sound of Bow bells, Alf, a smooth talking 'cockney sparrow' with a cheerful grin, suffered two life-threatening operations before his fourth birthday.

He waved his father off to war before experiencing the blitz of London prior to becoming an evacuee. His parents divorced following his dad's return to 'civvy-street' after the Second World War and Alf continued to be raised as the child of one parent; the difference was that at 12 years of age, he chose to live with his dad, a street trader who sold newspapers from his 'pitch' outside Waterloo Station. Alf became well acquainted with the seamier side of life and quickly learned how to 'duck and dive.'

Following his 'square bashing', he married his dancing partner, Pam. Three children, Kim, Leigh and Kerry, were born during Alf's nine years in the services. His natural flair for selling was soon recognized and he quickly obtained an executive post, placing him in the top 10% of wage earners in Britain.

With his fortieth birthday approaching, Alf went through the mid-life crisis and several adulterous relationships, which ultimately led to divorce. Then he entered into a successful coaching partnership with another squash professional, Dave King. Following Alf's separation, the newly named King Alfred Sports partnership bought a shop premise with a flat above for Alf to live in. Within a year three sports shops, were opened. Alf resigned from his well-paid job in order to concentrate on developing his business interests.

At his height of the popularity in the sport of darts, Alf started to make serious money wholesaling dart accessories to pubs and clubs. Sales were soon exceeding 100,000 pounds per annum! In August 1978 Alf married his squash protégé and business partner, Pauline, and they bought a detached house in Cambridge.

Some two years later, purely for social integration, they began to attend their parish church each week. "The church services I had attended in my childhood and whilst in the RAF were Anglo-Catholic, full of pomp and ceremony, but uninspiring. I had wrongly assumed that all churches ministered in a similar fashion." Through attending church services and the Dales Bible Camp, they learned of the gifts of the Holy Spirit.

Alf obtained the Cambridge Diploma in Religious Studies at the age of 55. On the completion of his studies he became a lay reader. Alf has accepted invitations to speak on most continents, where he has witnessed many turning to Christ and others delivered or healed.

MAKING WAVES

Paul McGuire - Costa Mesa, CA

Home Builders is a live daily radio broadcast on KBRT AM 740 in Southern California hosted by Paul McGuire. It's one of the highest rated Christian programs in the world, covering an audience from San Diego to Santa Barbara, Orange County, L.A., Palm Desert, and Palm Springs. He is an acclaimed author of ten books and has lectured at King's College and around the world.

Paul: It's staggering to see the tremendous response to our radio show. We have guests like Pat Robertson, James Dobson and Dan Quayle.

I was deeply involved in the occult and New Age for many years. I was somewhat of a radical activist, very much involved in the counter-culture of the late 60's and 70's, with hair down to my waist. Then I was invited to a Christian retreat outside the campus of the University of Missouri.

I thought it was ridiculous. It confirmed my worst fears of what Christianity was. It was a terrible experience, but the guy that invited me there was a sincere Christian.

I told him I was going to hitchhike back to campus. He said God would take care of my rides home, and I laughed. On the way back I got a ride from a Pentecostal preacher and his wife who shared about Jesus Christ with me. My second ride was a Bible salesman, driving a station wagon filled with Bibles. I got the message and said a "sinner's prayer" on those back roads of Missouri. That prayer changed my life forever.

Inside there was a wrestling process because even though I had committed my life to Jesus Christ, I didn't realize I had been "born again". The next day, I had a very strong experience with Jesus, and I realized once and for all that He was God. It took a while for me to fully surrender my life to Christ, but the Holy Spirit began dealing with me.

I began reading the Bible and attending a local church. Very slowly I became a disciple of Jesus. I read books by Dr. Francis Schaffer, the late theologian, and learned that Christianity was truth and not a religion.

That understanding has shaped my life and my thinking for the past 25 years. Since then I have taken my faith in Christ very seriously.

I learned that Christianity is truth and not a religion.

Making people think is the name of the game for Paul McGuire and his daily radio broadcast.

After getting married, I came across a group called the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International and attended a meeting in Utah where I was then living. At my first meeting, FGBMFI International President, Richard Shakarian, was speaking. At the time I was involved in a business deal to possibly produce a feature film. Richard led people to pray specifically for their business problems.

My wife and I prayed for our deal. Miraculously, the next day all the hindrances to the project coming together vanished, and I found myself as an executive producer of my first feature film.

It was a comedy called, ironically, "Knocking at Heaven's Door". I have since produced a number of other feature films.

On our current radio broadcast, we have people pulling off to the side of the road and accepting Jesus Christ live on the air. It's just amazing to me that people are so transparent about the most intimate things in their lives live on the radio - things they would never tell in person. It just staggers me how they'll continually call.

I meet with a lot of our advertisers and many of them belong to the FGBMFI. I have a wonderful wife, Kristina, and we have three lovely children. We both came from dysfunctional, alcoholic type homes so we waited for many years before having children. God

Paul and Kristina McGuire promised us that He would restore to us the years that the locust had eaten. After 15 years of marriage, we had twins, and then another son, so now we have three wonderful children.

Today we touch the world with our radio program. It is live and we can do things very quickly. For example, during the Columbine tragedy, we were able to instantly have students from the Columbine High School on the program. Because radio is so immediate, we've seen God move in many ways like that.

How Not To Succeed

Jay Evans
Colorado Springs, CO

Building a fence when I was fourteen, I was not quite getting it right when my father turned to me and spoke sharply in no uncertain terms. Basically, the message I got was to give the job everything I had. That event stuck with me all my life. From then on I approached every task from that point of reference. I would give it my all. My Daddy had set a good example.

We had a big 22,000 acre ranch in Colorado, with lots of cattle. I was a real cowboy and when I went to college I found that being stuck inside all the time just wasn't for me. My dad had always said, get yourself a trade and then do whatever else you want. I did that and then when my dad was incapacitated due to medical problems, I went back and ran the ranch for two and a half years.

On one occasion I was herding cattle through a gate when a heifer broke out and I went after it. She ran right in front of my mare and tripped her. The only thing I remember is my mare's feet going over my head. My dad came over to help me. He thought I was dead and rode back to house to get the car to carry me out of the pasture. In the meantime I came to.

My mare had run off so I began walking to the house. You can imagine the look on my parents' faces when they saw me. They were coming out across the fields bouncing through every ditch and rock as quickly as possible in what they were sure was futile effort to get me help. It was a miracle when my mare landed on me. Somehow the horn and back ridge of the saddle had saved my life. When my dad saw me with my eyes rolled back in my head and tongue hanging out, I was just unconscious. I walked away from that accident with a sore shoulder and the wind knocked out of me.

Once Dad could take over the ranch again I moved into town and got involved in the building industry again. I then built up an auto parts business. Things went well until there was a recession. Shortly after this my brother moved to Alaska and told me to join him. I went up for a week and made more money dry walling there in a week than I could make in Colorado in a month. We rented out our house and moved up to Alaska.

Just before this, while I had the auto parts store back in 1977, I hired a young girl, named Judy. She didn't particularly even like me when we first met, but one day I asked her what she did on Sundays. I don't know what I was thinking. She said, "I go to church." So I asked if I could go with her. She answered, "I don't care." So, I showed up at her church one day. I flipped my cigarette on the ground, went in and sat down beside Judy.

The third time I went to that little community church, I invited Jesus Christ to come into my life and I became "born again". Feeling me move past her was quite a surprise to Judy. She looked up to see me heading for the altar. The pastor had just invited anyone wishing to commit their lives to God to come forward for prayer.

Son, Mark, and Jay dry walling a house

Getting to know Judy better, she said let me know that she was not about to marry anybody unless he was a "good Christian man". We started dating and eventually did get married. A year and a half later we went to Alaska.

We then moved to Arizona and later back to Alaska where we lived until 1987 when the oil embargo hit. There were economic problems, and I injured my back and could not work. As a result, we lost our house. It was then that we returned home to Colorado. My doctor did all kinds of tests and then said, "I can not help you." I was so weak I couldn't even pick up a 40 pound bag of dry wall texture, but I had no other means of earning a living so I went back into the dry wall business. Slowly my back did begin to feel better and our business went well.

Then, in May of 1990, we drove to a Christian meeting. I got out of the car and just could not walk right. I'd been taking some pain pills for a few days, but I had not thought much about it. When we got back home I went to the doctor and he told me I could not work for three to four months. "You can not do anything for a while," he explained.

We sold my dry wall spray machine and each day when Judy went to work, I would watch Christian TV, study the Bible, and read books. One book called, "Forty, Sixty, A Hundred Fold". From it I learned about the seed and harvest. Judy came home that night and I said, "We have got to start giving." She agreed and we started by giving $46.61 monthly to a ministry that feeds the hungry.

The next Sunday at church someone asked how we were doing. Judy was the only one working and as absurd as it sounds, I responded, "It is God's problem what happens now, because I am a tither." We just kept giving and in January, 1991, I went back to work. In time a builder came to me and offered me all his dry wall work. He said he would pay me up front on every house until my business was going well.

At that time I was not advertising. Soon another builder called me up and asked us to do a house for him. When we got done, he asked if we would do his next house. My prayer was, "Lord God, You bring the work and

You send us the workers we will need.” We continued to give and we continued to grow. We gave ourselves right out of debt. We were up to seven builders and doing really well.

I needed a new pickup truck. At a convention and God told us to put $1,000 in the offering. We gulped a little, but said, “Okay.” When we got home I went down to buy a new truck, but the one I’d wanted was sold. Three days later the salesman phoned me up and said, “Your truck is back. The man brought it back. His wife didn’t like it. It has 300 miles on it now so I can not sell it to you as a new truck.” God had worked it out so that I was able to get exactly the truck I wanted for considerably less money.

In the meantime we were still living in a rented house and my wife wanted a home of our own. We put together a design for quite a nice house. By that time God had healed my back and I could do anything I wanted. One day I saw some new 1-acre lots for sale. The price was right so we tried to buy it and it went through just as easy as can be, so the banker suggested that I ask for enough money to build the house as well. They gave it to me and only asked that I bring in a profit and loss statement every month.

We went from nothing in 1991 to beautiful home, new furniture, and a successful business by 1995. All we had done was give – we gave without thinking. God did the rest. We just trusted God. Today we have about ten builders and have still not advertised. All I can say is that God is good! If you want to succeed, remember to put God first in your finances and every other area of your life.

REACH-OUT

LAY WITNESSES FOR CHRIST

FGBMFI Australia worked together with the Olympic athlete ministry, Lay Witnesses for Christ, to touch the lives of thousands of athletes and visitors alike at this year's Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia. Tens of thousands of copies of Voice magazine were handed out to people from around the world.

Sam Mings was appointed official chaplain to the Sydney Olympic Games, which gave opening to an unprecedented impact for the nation of Australia. The Reach Out 2000 team consisted of several thousand people.

The medical team at the Olympics this year is associated with the FGBMFI. The athletes have worked hard to win a gold medal. They have done everything humanly possible to bring the body under subjection. Yet, unless they know the person Jesus Christ, we have discovered there is still a hole in their lives.

Outreach 2000 is designed to reach athletes with the testimony of other athletes. Young people listen to these athletes as they speak about the truth of God.

The project saturated the host city with ministry, manning hospitality stations in the Olympic Village, witnessing door-to-door, leading clinics, visiting hospitals and using talents to draw crowds for gospel presentations.

In 1981 Sam began working with athletes at NCAA Track and Field Championships. He would ask, "Have you invited Jesus in? If you died today, would you go to heaven?" Now at the Olympic Games in Sydney, the combined impact of the athletes and groups like FGBMFI and local churches was enormous, the biggest yet at the Olympic Games.

6 Steps To Salvation

Men still cry, "What must I do to be saved?" The Bible provides a clear answer.

Acknowledge

"For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." (Romans 3:23)

"God, be merciful to me a sinner." (Luke 18:13)

2

Repent

"Except you repent, you shall all likewise perish." (Luke 13:3)

"Repent, therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out." (Acts 3:19)

Confess

"If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." (1 John 1:9) "If you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus, and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you shall be saved." (Romans 10:9)

Forsake

"Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord...for He will abundantly pardon." (Isaiah 55:7)

Believe

"For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believes in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3:16)

"He that believes and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believes not shall be damned." (Mark 16:16)

Receive

"He came unto His own, and His own received Him not. But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to those that believe on His name." (John 1:11, 12)

Why not make your eternal decision now?

"Lord Jesus, I believe You died for my sins and I ask for Your forgiveness. I receive You now as my personal Savior and invite You to manage my life from this day forward. Amen."

Write us to tell of your decision. We'll send you a booklet, "Now That You've Received Christ."

Yes! I have made my eternal decision. I have read the Six Steps to Salvation and have asked Jesus to be my personal Savior.

Please send me the booklet "Now That You've Received Christ."
